

JEWESS, AIDE OF DR. LATSON, TRIES TO KILL HERSELF

Attempts Asphyxiation, Is Prisoner, and Likely to Recover.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Desiring to join Dr. H. W. R. Latson, her "God-man," in the spirit world, Miss Alta Marhevka, the beautiful Russian Jewess, aide of the physician who was found self-slain Thursday night, today attempted to end her life by gas. She is now in the Washington Heights Hospital, a prisoner. It is believed she will recover.

"My God-man is floating through the cerulean blue, wearing beautiful wings, and I want to join him," Miss Marhevka cried in anguish when she found that her attempt at self-destruction had probably been balked.

Attempts Asphyxiation. Dr. Latson, as the mystic psychologist, taught Miss Marhevka and others who had come under the influence of his occultism, that there was no such thing as death. When she found the doctor kneeling and unconscious in his office and was later told he killed himself, she insisted that he had merely changed his form of life, and she declared at once she would join him.

Early today Mrs. Marhevka, Washington, with whom Miss Marhevka lived at 321 Broadway, smelled gas, which she traced to the bathroom. Miss Marhevka lay unconscious on the floor. The jet of the gas pipe had been turned on. Miss Marhevka had been in a highly nervous state ever since the discovery of Dr. Latson's body. She had been during last night she asked whether the police were coming to arrest her in connection with her teacher's suicide.

Dead Man Not Suicide. When she recovered consciousness at the hospital, Miss Marhevka bemoaned the interference in her plan to "go to my God-man, my God-man." "But we shall meet again," she continued. "All that is necessary is for my soul to keep in harmony with his."

The authorities admit there are several strange phases in the case. Dr. Latson's Physician Philip O'Hanlon is sure the fatal bullet was not fired by the dead man, pointing out that no student of anatomy, such as Latson was, would have attempted suicide by firing a bullet into his jaw, and that the face showed no marks of powder burn. "I did not kill Dr. Latson," Miss Marhevka said, when questioned by the authorities. "But if I had, I would have helped him attain eternity. I glory in the courage my God-man showed when he fired the bullet into his brain. He died as he lived—a matchless man."

Verbes on Remorse. In Miss Marhevka's room were found many written evidences of the girl's love for Latson and of the strange influence that exerted over her. On various scraps of paper was written the following: "Even if I have not succeeded, I have at least known life to its utmost."

REMOSE. Darling, love is so sweet a thing. We took it lightly. Gazed on it too brightly. Sensed it too deep. 'Twas then the great God flew. I fear, the fault was not in you. But I who, wayward, urged you on to this. A number of epigrams were found among the girl's writings, including the following: "A woman should be like a flame, dainty, exquisite, and fine, high and strong—strong, strong." "The sinful painter drapes his goddess, because she still is naked, being dust. The Godlike painter will not so deform."

GOSSIP TRAILS WAR CHIEF FROM OFFICE

Department and White House Attaches Drop Hints of Friction Between Him and Taft Over Mexican Situation.

Most everybody who has any interest in all the resignation of Secretary of War Jacob M. Dickinson has a different guess why this Cabinet officer desires to return to private life.

There is, of course, the regulation reason that the Secretary wants to re-enter private business, and is going to his home in Tennessee, for that purpose. Secretary Ballinger resigned for that reason as do nearly all Cabinet officers. It is the real acting reason back of the private business part of the program that is causing the guessing.

The present Secretary of War resigned as general counsel of the Illinois Central Railway to take up the War portfolio. His position with that company has since been filled. It is not likely, therefore, that he will go back to the railroad. Instead he will go to Belle Mead, the great stock farm near Nashville, Tenn., which he purchased from the Jacksons, and will become, for the present anyway, a "country gentleman."

Hitched on Mexico. It is difficult to separate the resignation of Secretary Dickinson from the present troubles with Mexico. It was, however, recalled that the Secretary and the President have not been exactly in accord in this matter.

When the mobilization of the 20,000 troops now in Texas was ordered it was Gen. Leonard Wood whom the President consulted rather than the Secretary. Of course, Mr. Dickinson was called into the conference, but the word of the military expert prevailed when any differences of opinion took place.

Just about this time, too, Secretary Dickinson started for Panama to settle some questions arising in connection with freight rates on the Panama railroad. Before his ship sailed, however, he was called back to Washington and this Panama trip has not yet been made. That was only an incident, but it may have had its bearing. Then, too, it is not recalled that on the day when the real reasons for the mobilization of the Federal troops the border became known with the consent of President Taft, the Executive and his War Secretary met in Atlanta. There was a hurried conference between them, but those who were near at the time insist that it was not as friendly as it might have been.

Different Stories. The Secretary has been busy issuing statements to the effect that the Mexican troubles had nothing whatever to do with the mobilization of American troops, whereas the President and other advisers let it be known that the Mexican revolution had everything to do with the army movement.

These things, coupled with the well-known sensitiveness of the Secretary of War, lead to the conclusion that he decided to retire for other reasons than those of business.

Everybody understands why Henry L. Stimson, of New York, was chosen to succeed Mr. Dickinson. He has a position in the party coupled with his recognized ability made him particularly desirable to the President at this time. The 1912 campaign is therefore not carried the State.

The President wants New York State to support him. He believes that Leach and Sherman and Barnes can take care of the old guard, and he believes Stimson can handle the progressive. This cabinet reshuffle is therefore intended to solidify the party in the Empire State and prepare for the campaign.

The new Secretary is a man of great ability as a lawyer and public speaker. He is also an author of note. He was named as the possible successor to Secretary Ballinger months ago, but was not chosen at that time. He was reserved for something bigger, and Stimson will come to Washington Monday to take up the duties of

DO YOU SUFFER FROM PILES

HERE IS THE WAY TO HEALTH

DILATION AND MEDICATION have long been used in the treatment of piles. But until the invention of the NATURA AUTOMATIC DILATOR they have never been used in conjunction with each other. Both of these factors are most beneficial in the treatment of PILES, but either alone can do no more than afford temporary relief. Used together in the NATURA AUTOMATIC DILATOR a quick and permanent cure is effected. The benefits of Dilation to the entire system can hardly be overestimated. The use of the NATURA DILATOR will be found beneficial to the nervous system, the heart action, the circulation and gives an exhilarating effect to the entire mental and physical make-up.

Piles often lead to many other disorders of the organs and glands, slowly related to the rectal region. These troubles yield readily to the Natura treatment, as their cause is removed. WRITE TODAY for full information regarding our method of home treatments. For sale at all reliable druggists.

The Salvo. The letters which the President gave out last night bearing on the resignation of the Secretary of War are as follows:

Secretary Dickinson's letter: Washington, April 28, 1911. Dear Mr. President: As my affairs have recently so changed as to require my personal attention in Tennessee, I herewith tender my resignation as Secretary of War, to take effect as soon as may be compatible with the public interest. I cannot express to you how much I appreciate the honor and confidence which you have bestowed upon me and the uniform kindness with which you have always treated me. The memory of having enjoyed the privilege of being associated with you and my colleague of the cabinet in the discussion of so many great questions affecting the welfare of our country will always be cherished by me as inestimable.

With all good wishes for you and with the hope that one so long, patriotic and devoted may long be permitted to serve his country, I am, very sincerely, J. M. DICKINSON.

President Taft's Reply. The White House, Washington, May 8, 1911. My Dear Secretary Dickinson: I have your letter of resignation, and am sorry that the personal considerations, as you have expressed, have made it necessary for me to accept it. Since you wrote it, you have signified to me that I thought your resignation was a sacrifice of your personal interests and continue in office. While I fully appreciate the high sense of duty that prompts your offer, I am glad to say that our relations indicate that you are likely to arise making your withdrawal now any more than at a later date, or justifying my asking from you such a sacrifice.

In consenting to a severance of our official relations, I wish to tell you how satisfactory your administration of your great department has been. It has involved the care and control of the army, the government of the Philippines and Porto Rico, the construction of the Panama Canal, and incidentally, the government of the Canal Zone. In every way your work has been admirable, and entitled you to the gratitude of your countrymen.

Personally, I wish to thank you for what you have done for our country. I have a sense of loyalty to the Administration, and to express my deep regret that our delightful intimacy is coming to an end. I sincerely hope that you may be able to achieve success in the private life which you have chosen. I am, Sir, your sincere friend, WILLIAM H. TAFT. J. M. Dickinson, Secretary of War.

Dickinson Friends in South Recall His Tilt With Taft in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga., May 12.—Following the news of the resignation of Secretary of War Dickinson, it is recalled here today that the Secretary addressed the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at the commercial congress here last March he declared on the honor of the S. A. E. that the troops were sent to the border for maneuvers only. At the same time President Taft allowed a story to be sent from his special train, enroute South, saying that international complications in the situation.

It is known positively that Dickinson was very indignant when he learned of the position Taft had put him in and so expressed himself to his friends, offering by Cardinal Gibbons, that incident had anything to do with his resignation.

HEALTHY MOTHERS

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. ## POLICE SEEK MAN WHO TRIED SUICIDE IN CELL AT STATION

Herbert Crutchley, Held on Minor Charge, Leaves Hospital Partly Clad.

Taking advantage of an unbothered door, Herbert Crutchley, twenty-one years old, escaped from Casualty Hospital about 5 o'clock this morning, and in the hours after he was taken to that institution from the Eleventh precinct, where he tried to hang himself.

Clad in trousers, shirt and shoes, Crutchley is at large. A lookout has been sent broadcast over the city, for the police fear he may again attempt to harm himself.

Crutchley, who lives at 1238 V street southeast, and a companion, were arrested before midnight last night for disorderly conduct, the police having charged him with breaking a bottle of whiskey in the street.

Hanging By Suspenders. About 12:35 o'clock this morning, Policeman Garvey, of the Eleventh precinct, was making the rounds of the cell room. He heard a groan coming from Crutchley's cell, and going there, he found the young man hanging with his feet in the bars of the cell.

He had tied the suspenders to the bar across the top of the cell door. Garvey called Policeman Whelan and together they cut him down before he was badly hurt.

The placed him in the patrol wagon, and made a run for Casualty Hospital, where the young man was found to be practically unharmed by his experience, but it was thought best to keep him in the hospital over night.

Quits Hospital. Crutchley was placed in a room at the hospital with two other men. They were suffering from contusions and bruises, and no police charge was against them. An orderly visited the room early this morning. It is thought that he forgot to relock the door, and that Crutchley, simply got up and left the hospital.

Crutchley was hurt sometime ago in a street car accident, and the police said he has never fully recovered from the injury.

CAPITAL TO JOIN IN MOTHER OBSERVANCE EXALTING MOTHERS

Day Set Apart for Honoring Motherhood Will Be Celebrated Tomorrow.

Washington will join tomorrow with the rest of the world in paying tribute to motherhood. White carnations will be used in church decorations, in the homes and even on the trains of many of the railroads in recognition of the Mothers' Day observance. The request goes forth from the founder of this annual affair, that each person signalize the day by doing some special act of kindness or performing some mission of mercy in honor of his mother.

The Mothers' Day inaugurated in Philadelphia, in 1908, by Miss Anna Jarvis, has met with such general acceptance that tomorrow not only in Washington, Philadelphia, and the cities and towns throughout the United States, but on every continent of the world, it will be observed.

The churches and Sunday school in Washington will give in their services and sessions tomorrow prominence to the thought of the observance of Mothers' Day. Even the railroad companies have caught the spirit.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company will place large bouquets in each of its dining cars, and a flower will be given to each diner with the message of Mothers' Day.

The Young Women's Christian Association will join with the Young Men's Christian Association in a union service at the home of the Boys-Gods Men. Mrs. Kate Walker Barrett, of the Florence Crittenton Missions, will also speak.

General Secretary Cooper, of the Y. M. C. A., will preside, and Miss Florence Brown, secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

This observance is but one of many that will be held by societies and organizations, as well as the churches. The Mothers' Day appeal is being recognized here by all creeds, sects, and conditions of society, and there is every indication that tomorrow's exercises and recognition of the day will enlist the support and interest of thousands of persons in Washington who are seldom moved to participate in such exercises.

Calvary Baptist Church Sunday School Banquet

Greater belief in the Bible and growth of its power was the thought expressed by many speakers last night at the twentieth annual banquet of the Sunday school of the Calvary Baptist Church.

Celebration of the tri-centennial of the writing of the Bible by King James also figured in the banquet. Held in the Sunday school rooms and attended by a hundred guests.

The Rev. Emory W. Hunt, president of the Northern Baptist convention, was guest of honor, delivering the principal address on "The Word in Its Power."

Pleron H. Bristow, superintendent of the Sunday school, was toastmaster, calling upon Dr. Mitchell Carroll, the pastor, the Rev. Samuel H. Greene, Mrs. James E. Arnold, Eugene Mason, Miss Lydia Marshall, and Miss Minnie Hegeman for addresses. Music was given at the banquet by Earl Carbaugh, Mr. Walter A. Gayler, accompanied by A. D. Mayo, and Robert Bond Gotta.

EYES RED, WOULD BURN AND STING

Grew Constantly Worse. Could Hardly Work Any More. Used Cuticura Remedies, and in Six Weeks She Was Cured.

"It is just a year ago that my eyes came over here to us. She had been here only a few weeks when her eyes began to be red, and to burn and sting as if she had sand in them. Then we used all of the home remedies. She washed her eyes with salt water, used hot tea to bathe them with, and banded them over night with tea leaves. But all to no purpose. She went to the drug store and got some salve, but she grew constantly worse. She was scarcely able to look in the light. At last she decided to go to a doctor, because she could hardly work any more. The doctor said it was a very severe disease, and she might lose her eyesight. He said her eyes were inflamed and he would try to cure them. He gave her various ointments. In the two and a half or three months she had been under his treatment, we saw very little improvement.

"Then we had read so much how people had been helped by Cuticura that we thought we would try it, and we cannot be thankful enough that we used it. My sister used the Cuticura Pills, bathed only with Cuticura Soap, and at night after washing, she anointed her eyes very gently on the outside with the Cuticura Ointment. In one week, the swelling was entirely gone from the eyes, and after a month, there was no longer any mucus or watering of the eyes. She could already see better, and in six weeks she was cured. (Signed) Mrs. Julia Caspiska, 3005 Utah St., St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 25, 1910.

Many afflictions of the eyes are caused by impure blood. Cuticura Remedies used judiciously seldom fail to prove beneficial in such cases. Potter Drug & Chem.
